EVENT AND TOUR HIGHLIGHTS

Reynolds Museum September 23

The Reynolds Museum, owned and operated by Alberta Arts, Culture and Status of Women and Alberta Infrastructure, opened in 1992. The museum is named after its primary benefactor, Stanley George Reynolds, a Wetaskiwin businessman, aviator, renowned collector and philanthropist

Based on the donations from Stan Reynolds, the Museum has four themes or mandate areas: Transportation, Aviation, Agriculture and Industry - so cars, trucks, motorcycles, airplanes, tractors, and industrial machines associated with mining are also included. Stan continued to donate artifacts to the museum's collection after the institution opened, with Reynolds donating another 60 aircraft. The aviation collection has continued to grow from private donations and the Reynolds Heritage Preservation Foundation, and currently has Canada's largest collection of vintage aircraft at 135 planes.

Stan Reynolds passed away in 2012, but his enthusiasm for collecting and preserving history lives on at the Reynolds Museum.

An incredible example of the work of restoring old vehicles to a showroom condition. This example is of a 1928 Dodge brothers Coupe.

HOST SPEAKER HIGHLIGHTS

Justin Cuffe – Curator, Historian, and Heritage

With more than two decades of dedicated service at the Reynolds Museum, Justin Cuffe brings a wealth of experience and passion to the preservation and interpretation of cultural heritage. His academic journey began at Wilfrid Laurier University in Waterloo, Ontario, where he earned his undergraduate degree in Archaeology and Classical Studies. He later pursued a post-graduate certificate in Museum Management from Sir Fleming College in Peterborough, Ontario, and in 2013, completed his master's degree in Cultural Heritage from Deakin University in Victoria, Australia.

Justin's commitment to history extends beyond the museum walls. When he's not curating exhibits or engaging with the public, he enjoys spending quality time with his partner, Cassandra, and their four children. Whether attending Air Cadet functions, Scouts meets, or cheering at minor hockey games and practices, Justin is deeply involved in his family's activities. He also finds solace in his garage, where he's restoring two classic vehicles: a 1968 Chevy Nova sedan and a 1929 Ford Model A hot rod.
